Dear Ecosystem Role Players

This financial year, 2026/27, marks the second full financial year of supporting small businesses by this unified entity, Small Enterprise Development and Finance Agency (better known as SEDFA), which was established through the merger of Seda, Sefa and CBDA October 2024 – a significant milestone in government's commitment to fostering a cohesive and inclusive small enterprise ecosystem.

While getting down to the nitty gritty of a merger, SEDFA has been hard at work carrying out the responsibilities mandated to it under the Ministry of Small Business Development to support Micro, Small and Medium Enterprises (MSMEs) and Cooperatives.

In this edition of Amathuba, we publish highlights of some of the work SEDFA did, has been actively involved with while reconfiguring itself for the betterment of small businesses.

In a time when South Africa grapples with an unemployment crisis, women in South Africa have taken on this challenge with remarkable zeal. Women entrepreneurs contribute significantly to job creation, community upliftment, and sustainable economic growth.

Editor's note

SEDFA celebrated women entrepreneurs during the International Women's Day and launched a fund to support them.

With the small businesses facing a myriad of challenges including skills upliftment, access to finance and access to markets, SEDFA continues to assist small businesses with initiatives such as pop-up markets where they can sell their products and market their services. The Agency also launched some sector specific funding programmes to assist with funding the small businesses. SEDFA continues to launch incubation centres that play a pivotal role in providing critical support, physical workspace, mentorship and funding to early-stage startups and small businesses.

While small businesses continue to show resilience amid economic hardships and challenges, SEDFA leadership during this period since the merger, showed visible support to businesses by visiting their premises and engaging with owners.

SEDFA continues to unlock the full potential of South Africa's small enterprise sector through targeted interventions to expand access to finance, markets, and skills.

Celebrating Women's Day in Mossel Bay:

Empowering Voices, Inspiring Journeys

Earlier in the year, a vibrant celebration of International Women's Day took place in Mossel Bay, delivered in partnership with Mossel Bay Municipality.

The event brought together a powerful network of ecosystem partners, entrepreneurs, and community leaders, all united in recognising and uplifting the contributions of women in business and society.

The event was proudly attended by key stakeholders, including the National Development Agency (NDA), MTN, Garden Route District Municipality, Eden FM, SANParks, Youth Café, and the Department of Forestry, Fisheries and Environment. Each partner shared messages of support, reinforcing a collective commitment to advancing opportunities for women and strengthening inclusive economic growth across the region.

The programme opened with welcoming remarks from Kiewit Mhlongo, Acting Provincial Manager at SEDFA, who set the tone by emphasising the importance of collaboration and sustained support for women-led enterprises. His address highlighted the role of partnerships in unlocking potential and creating pathways for success.

A key highlight of the day was an engaging panel discussion facilitated by Natalie Botha from the Garden Route District Municipality. Under the theme "My Business Journey," the session offered authentic insights into the realities of entrepreneurship. Two inspiring MSMEs took centre stage: Buykavundle Trading (Pty) Ltd, a thriving tshisanyama business led by Nwabisa Lindani, and Tarina's Perfumery owned by Tarina Els. The entrepreneurs shared their personal journeys, marked by resilience, innovation, and determination, providing valuable lessons and motivation to aspiring business owners in attendance.

The event concluded with closing remarks from Nthabeleng Mokitimi-Dlamini, Group Executive: Ecosystem & Stakeholder Management, who reflected on the day's discussions and reaffirmed the organisation's commitment to building a supportive ecosystem for women entrepreneurs. Her message pointed out the value of continued engagement, mentorship, and access to resources in driving sustainable impact.

This Women's Day celebration in Mossel Bay was more than just an event; it was a testament to the strength of collaboration and the transformative power of women's voices. As stakeholders and partners continue to work together, the momentum generated on this day will undoubtedly contribute to a more inclusive and empowered future for women across the region.

LOOP TRANSPORT (Loop Taxi App)

SEDFA fuels LoopTransport to become a role player in the ride-hailing market.

Loop Transport approached SEDFA for assistance with business pitching skills, including the testing of their business's idea amongst similar ventures.

The business further wanted funding for their state-of-the-art technology process. SEDFA came on board through the Technology Assistance Programme grant. This jumpstarted the company with technology they required.

They were assisted to spruce up their pitching skills, which resulted in the company vying for and winning various prestigious honors, including Presidential Awards and many others.

The business was further exposed to international markets and platforms such as the EU Summit. SEDFA propelled the company to compete at the highest level, ultimately culminating in a significant victory at a national level. Loop Transport is a small firm based in Cape Town. It is a tech-driven company aiming to disrupt and upgrade the traditional minibus taxi system by introducing modern technological solutions.

The company is slowly becoming a role player in the ride-hailing market, primarily in South Africa, through a combination of aggressive strategies and favourable market conditions

Tosh Detergents:

Growth Through SEDFA Support

Tosh Detergents, established in 2021, is a manufacturer of cleaning detergents that has experienced significant growth through support from the Small Enterprise Development and Finance Agency (SEDFA) technology programme in Lenasia South, Johannesburg, with only one mixing tank.

As demand increased, it relocated to the Mamelodi Incubation Centre to access larger facilities. Following funding support from SEDFA, the company expanded rapidly and eventually moved to an industrial area in Centurion to accommodate its growing operations.

With increased production and market reach, Tosh Detergents secured distribution in various retail outlets and supermarkets, including several Checkers/Shoprite stores, and successfully listed its products on Amazon.

However, rapid growth also brought challenges, particularly an increase in customer complaints. To address these issues, the company engaged the SEDFA Technology Transfer Programme (STP) to improve its business processes and systems. Through this intervention, an ISO 9001:2015 Quality Management System was implemented. This resulted in a significant reduction in customer complaints and improved product returns.

The impact of SEDFA's support has been substantial. Tosh Detergents has created five new jobs, expanded its supply network from 20 to 80. Checkers/Shoprite stores nationwide, and strengthened its presence in both physical retail and online platforms such as Amazon.

The company has also received notable recognition. It was acknowledged by Mail & Guardian as a leading manufacturer in the cleaning detergents sector and received awards from the 40 Under 40 Global Awards, which celebrate excellence in businesses led by individuals under the age of 40. Tosh Detergents was also recognised as the Best Manufacturing Enterprise.

In addition to its local success, the company has begun exporting its products to Botswana, with strong prospects for further expansion into additional international markets.

SEDFA Supports Growth of Coastal Tourism in KwaZulu-Natal

The Small Enterprise Development and Finance Agency (SEDFA) has played a pivotal role in supporting a rural beach resort in Umgababa, south of Durban, contributing to local economic development and tourism growth.

A few years ago, Mandla Makhathini, owner of Amakhumbe Resort, trading as Coastal Beach Resort, approached SEDFA for financial assistance to enhance telecommunications infrastructure and furnish his growing establishment.

Located in a rural coastal area, Amakhumbe Resort has become a notable tourism destination. The resort specialises in accommodation, conferencing, weddings, team-building activities, private functions, and strategic planning sessions.

Having been in operation for over eight years, the resort currently employs 20 permanent staff members, contributing meaningfully to local job creation. It has also achieved a 3-star grading from the Tourism Grading Council of South Africa, reflecting its commitment to quality service and hospitality standards.

Through SEDFA's support, Amakhumbe Resort received funding for critical assets, including:

- Furniture for 40 newly completed guest rooms
- Quad bikes for recreational activities
- Laundry equipment
- Air conditioning systems
- Fire safety equipment
- A solar energy system

This investment has significantly enhanced the resort's capacity and service offering, positioning it as a competitive player in the coastal tourism sector while driving inclusive economic growth in rural KwaZulu-Natal.

SEDFA Waterberg Empowers MSMEs Through a Successful Two-Day Pop-Up Market at The Crossing Mall, Mokopane

SEDFA Waterberg successfully hosted a vibrant and impactful two-day pop-up market earlier in the year at The Crossing Mall in Mokopane, providing a valuable platform for 30 Micro, Small, and Medium Enterprises (MSMEs) to showcase their products and services.

The initiative formed part of SEDFA's ongoing commitment to supporting local economic development by creating local market access opportunities for small businesses. The participating MSMEs represented a diverse range of sectors, including the manufacturing of cleaning detergents, clothing and textiles, bakery and confectionery, fast food and takeaways, electrical supply and services, hardware, private healthcare services, and other SEDFA-supported enterprises.

Of the 30 businesses initially targeted, 16 MSMEs actively participated in the market over the two days. Despite this, the event yielded significant positive outcomes, with participating businesses reporting increased sales, improved brand visibility, and valuable customer engagement. The high foot traffic at the mall contributed to strong buyer interaction, allowing MSMEs to expand their customer base and gain real-time market exposure.

The entrepreneurs expressed their satisfaction with the overall experience, highlighting the excellent location within the mall, as well as the high standards of safety, cleanliness, and organisation. The positioning of the pop-up market ensured optimal visibility and accessibility, which played a key role in attracting customers

SEDFA remains committed to facilitating similar initiatives that promote entrepreneurship, stimulate local economies, and support the sustainability and growth of MSMEs within the Waterberg District and beyond.

SEDFA Leads Creative Sector Engagement in Durban

Earlier this year, the Small Enterprise Development and Finance Agency (SEDFA), led by the Minister of Small Business Development, Stella Ndabeni, hosted a dynamic dialogue with the creative sector at the Durban International Convention Centre.

The engagement aimed to create a collaborative platform connecting creatives with investment opportunities and policy frameworks to unlock growth within South Africa's creative economy.

The event, held under the banner CreativeBiz Nexus and themed "Fuelled through Creativity,- powered by Hustle" was well-attended and built on earlier conversations initiated in Limpopo in 2025. The initiative is set to roll out across multiple provinces throughout the year, ensuring broader participation from creatives nationwide.

Speaking at the event, Minister Ndabeni emphasised the government's continued commitment to investing in the creative economy, positioning it as a legitimate and high-growth pillar of South Africa's small business landscape.

Supporting this vision, Brand South Africa highlighted the sector's role in global positioning. South African music, film, fashion, and design not only travel across borders but also carry the country's identity into international markets - generating foreign interest and strengthening cultural influence in ways traditional campaigns cannot.

The Durban session brought together a diverse range of stakeholders from music and audio-visual production, fashion and design, arts and crafts, and the rapidly growing content economy.

Insights and discussions from Durban, along with upcoming provincial engagements, are expected to yield tangible outcomes that will directly inform SEDFA's evolving funding models and sector-specific partnership frameworks.

SEDFA launches the Northern Cape Agriculture Incubator

As part of strengthening agricultural entrepreneurship and enterprise development in South Africa, the Minister of Small Business Development Department Minister Stella Ndabeni officially launched the Northern Cape Agriculture Incubator (NCAI) earlier this year at the Boontjieskraal Incubation and Conference Centre (BICC), Kimberley, in the Northern Cape.

The Northern Cape Agriculture Incubator is one of over 100 incubation centres supported by the Small Enterprise Development and Finance Agency (SEDFA) across South Africa, which aims to accelerate the growth and sustainability of small enterprises.

The NCAI is designed to serve as a centre of excellence in agricultural training, innovation, and production, providing integrated support to emerging farmers and agribusiness entrepreneurs. The incubator will act as an inclusive agricultural hub, bringing together food technologists, entrepreneurs, researchers, students, young professionals, unemployed youth, graduates, small enterprises, cooperatives, investors, and stakeholders from local and provincial government to collaborate and unlock opportunities in the agricultural value chain.

Through training, mentorship, market access support, and enterprise development services, the incubator is expected to contribute to skills development, enterprise growth, and job creation.

Minister Ndabeni launched the incubator and unveiled the plaque during the event. The incubator will enable the community to access information and fresh produce. The launch was designed to empower entrepreneurs, youth, and women with necessary entrepreneurial and cutting-edge marketing skills.

Inyamazane Fund Gets a Facelift

Military veterans of South Africa will welcome the efforts by the Small Enterprise Development Finance Agency (SEDFA), which has been rolling out nationwide consultation sessions aimed at improving access to business development and finance for veteran-owned small businesses.

These consultations have been conducted across all provinces, with the final report currently being finalised. The process was designed to incorporate the views of veterans into the planned revitalisation of the Inyamazane Fund, ensuring that it becomes more accessible and development-focused in both its financial and non-financial support offerings.

The former Small Enterprise Finance Agency (sefa), now merged with the Small Enterprise Development Agency (Seda) to form SEDFA, introduced the Inyamazane Fund as a dedicated funding programme. The fund provides concessional credit facilities ranging from R50,000 to R1.5 million.

The consultation process seeks to strengthen and improve this programme so that veterans can access it more easily and effectively.

The initiative was officially launched by the Minister of Small Business Development in Mthatha in December 2025. From the beginning of 2026, consultations were rolled out to other provinces, with strong participation from military veterans.

The revitalised programme is expected to rebuild confidence among veterans in the government's ability to address historical operational challenges that affect their businesses.

Key issues raised during the consultations included:

- Difficulties in accessing funding due to complex application processes
- Delays in loan approvals and disbursements
- Lack of awareness about the fund and its benefits
- Insufficient post-funding business support and mentorship
- The need for more flexible funding criteria tailored to veterans' realities
- Challenges in meeting compliance and documentation requirements
- The outcomes of these consultations are expected to shape a more responsive, inclusive, and impactful Inyamazane Fund that better serves the needs of South Africa's military veteran entrepreneurs.

SEDFA Board Visits Clients in Durban to Show Support

The SEDFA Board and Executive Management took time out of their busy schedules to visit SEDFA-funded clients in and around the Durban area earlier this year. Over the course of two intensive days, the delegation visited a range of businesses, including lending and business development beneficiaries.

This initiative formed part of SEDFA's ongoing commitment to not only conduct post-investment monitoring, but also to ensure active management involvement in supporting clients. The visits aimed to strengthen relationships, assess progress, and reinforce SEDFA's core mandate of job creation and driving economic growth.

Highlights of the visit

Afro Zonke Projects and Investments

Afro Zonke Projects and Investments, established in 2015, operates in the chemical manufacturing sector. The company received approximately R12.8 million in funding for equipment and raw materials. This support resulted in the creation of seven (7) new jobs and the preservation of fourteen (14) existing ones.

Ihawu Lodge Westville

Ihawu Lodge, a guesthouse established in 2006, received funding through the Tourism Equity Fund (TEF). The funding has enabled the business to create and sustain jobs. SEDFA continues to support the lodge through market access initiatives. With enhanced marketing efforts, the guesthouse is well-positioned to become a leading accommodation choice in Durban for both corporate and leisure visitors.

South Africa Metering Solutions – Amanzimtoti

Established in 2019, South Africa Metering Solutions specialises in the sales, marketing, assembly, and testing of smart water metering products. The company received support through the Business Recovery and Small Enterprise Manufacturing Support (SEMS) programme, strengthening its operational capacity.

Coastal Beach Resort – Umgababa

Amakhumbe Investments (Pty) Ltd, trading as Coastal Beach Resort is a 100% black-owned business operating in the tourism sector. Located in the rural area of Umgababa, south of Durban. The resort received funding through the Tourism Equity Fund, supporting its growth and sustainability.

Bakers Creationz – Inanda (Maphephetheni)

Sizanobuhle Co-operative Ltd, trading as Bakers Creationz, is a premium confectionery manufacturer that began operations in a home kitchen in 2014. Due to rapid growth, the business expanded to a larger facility within the same year. It now supplies major retailers, including Pick n Pay, SPAR, and various fuel station convenience outlets. Funding through the Cooperative Development Support Programme enabled the purchase of a delivery vehicle, production equipment, and raw materials.

SmartXchange KwaMashu Digital Hub

Established in 2019, the SmartXchange KwaMashu Digital Hub is a business technology incubator supporting MSMEs. As part of the broader SmartXchange network (established in 2004), it has contributed significantly to enterprise development—graduating over 680 businesses, creating more than 3,000 jobs, and enabling over R3 billion in cumulative turnover. The KwaMashu hub alone has supported 50 MSMEs, created 200 jobs, and sustained 250 jobs.

incubation and skills development centre. Between 2022 and 2024, it delivered 1,117 business development services, created 119 permanent jobs, and sustained 849. Additionally, 23 incubatees graduated, 655 learners were trained, and client businesses generated a combined turnover of R85 million.

Durban Textile and Leather Incubator

The Durban Textile and Leather Incubator (DTLI) is a specialised business incubator focused on supporting and developing sustainable Micro, Small, and Medium Enterprises (MSMEs) within the clothing, textile, footwear, and leather value chain in KwaZulu-Natal. The incubator provides structured business development and incubation support aimed at strengthening enterprise competitiveness, fostering innovation, and improving market access for emerging businesses in the sector. Established in 2023, DTLI has since formally supported 36 MSMEs through its incubation programme, contributing to the development and growth of enterprises within the provincial manufacturing ecosystem.

Umbilo Express Plant Hire

Umbilo Express Plant Hire (Pty) Ltd, a black female-owned company established in 2015, received funding under SEDFA's Business Viability Programme. This intervention led to the creation of six (6) new jobs and the retention of nine (9) existing jobs.

Supporting Growth and Transformation in the Construction Sector

SEDFA partners with CIDB to expand support for small businesses in the Construction sector

Collaboration between the Small Enterprise Development and Finance Agency (SEDFA) and the Construction Industry Development Board (CIDB) culminated in the launch of the Construction Fund by the Minister of the Small Business Development Department, Ms Stella Ndabeni. The Fund was launched in Modderfontein, Johannesburg early 2026

The Construction Fund aims to provide access to finance and developmental support for MSMEs operating across various subsectors of the construction sector. It will improve access to finance and developmental support to MSMEs operating across various subsectors of the construction sector.

“This R300 million Construction Fund is not simply about financing projects; It is about supporting businesses that must employ people, sustain families and contribute towards local economic development.

SEDFA CEO
Mr Nkosikhona Mbatha

It is about helping emerging contractors move from the margins of the economy into meaningful participation within the construction value chain, says Ndabeni.

CIDB and SEDFA's collaboration signifies a strong intergovernmental partnership aimed at strengthening MSMEs in the construction sector and ensuring their meaningful participation in South Africa's economic development.

Delivering a keynote address at the launch Minister Ndabeni pointed out that economic participation in many sectors remains unequal, arguing that too many black-, women- and youth-owned enterprises, as well as township and rural MSMEs, still struggle to access finance, procurement opportunities, and large infrastructure value chains.

Meet the New SEDFA Executive Management

Nkosikhona Mbatha

Chief Executive Officer (CEO)

As a unified entity, SEDFA is committed to extending enterprise development support and ensuring that these interventions are accessible to all. The new SEDFA Executive Management embodies this commitment, promising greater access to development and finance for MSMEs, and driving a more streamlined ecosystem that benefits small businesses and cooperatives alike.

From SEDFA's Research Desk

MSMEs remain resolute in the face of economic hardship.

Despite the persistent structural and cost pressures MSMEs face in South Africa, they remain resolute, this is according to the findings of the SEDFA Research Unit.

South Africa has recorded five consecutive quarters of growth, but overall expansion remains modest. Small businesses wrestle with rising input costs, limited access to finance and infrastructure constraints.

Some macro conditions, such as improving inflation and gradual recovery, are starting to provide a more supportive environment.

Sector Opportunities

What are the opportunities looking like in different sectors?

- In the ICT/Digital Economy – there is strong growth driven by digital adoption, e-commerce, technology services, and platform-based business models.
- Tourism: Post-pandemic recovery is boosting opportunities in accommodation, transport, catering, and cultural sectors.
- Manufacturing: Remains under pressure, but certain innovation-driven value chains could present niche opportunities.

Key challenges

Amongst many, the following are challenges that small businesses must contend with, according to the insights from SEDFA's Research

- Rising transport and energy costs.
- Vulnerability to global economic uncertainties.
- The need for more than just finance: MSMEs also require business opportunities, development, digital skills, market access, and ecosystem partnerships.

SEDFA's Role

Against this background, SEDFA is focused on providing cushions to small enterprises through the provision of finance and non-financial interventions that will strengthen the sustainability and competitiveness of the hard-pressed micro and macro businesses. SEDFA further provides insights and support programs that enable MSMEs to adopt technology, innovate, and to access growth opportunities.

Moving forward it is critical that small businesses adapt, embrace technology and leverage on the ecosystem support provided by SEDFA to better position themselves for growth. They will also have to do better in strengthening partnerships that will improve access to opportunities and targeted sectoral support.

Key Insights: MSMEs in South Africa – Resilience Amid Challenges

SEDFA's Research Unit generates evidence-based insights on SMMEs, development finance, market trends and policy to inform strategic decision-making, strengthen programmes and improve the impact of support provided to small businesses.

1. Economic Context

- ▶ South Africa has recorded five consecutive quarters of positive growth, but overall expansion remains modest.
- ▶ MSMEs face pressures including rising input costs, limited access to finance, and infrastructure constraints.

3. SEDFA's Role

- ▶ Provides integrated financial and non-financial support to strengthen MSME sustainability and competitiveness.
- ▶ Research insights guide smarter support programs and policy interventions.
- ▶ Focus on enabling MSMEs to adopt technology, innovate, and access growth opportunities.

2. Sector Opportunities

- ▶ ICT/Digital Economy: Strong growth driven by digital adoption, e-commerce, technology services, and platform-based business models.
- ▶ Tourism: Post-pandemic recovery is boosting opportunities in accommodation, transport, catering, and cultural sectors.

4. Outlook

- ▶ MSMEs that adapt, embrace technology, and leverage ecosystem support are better positioned for growth.
- ▶ Strengthening partnerships, improving access to opportunities, and targeted sectoral support will be critical for future resilience.

Bottom line:

MSMEs are resilient but face persistent structural and cost pressures. Emerging sectors like ICT and tourism offer growth avenues, while comprehensive support beyond financing - such as skills, market access, and partnerships - is essential for long-term sustainability.

SEDFA supports the Freedom Day Marathon in Bloemfontein

Early in 2026 SEDFA, together with the Mangaung Metropolitan Municipality hosted the Freedom Day Marathon in Bloemfontein, Freestate. The Freedom Day Marathon created an opportunity for small businesses around the City of Mangaung to participate in the marathon and to benefit from commercial opportunities that derived from the Marathon activities.

The Minister of the Small Business Development Department, Ms Stella Ndabeni led from the front delivering the keynote address, spurring on communities to celebrate the day whilst promoting community wellness, social cohesion and economic participation.

The streets of Bloemfontein became a bundle of energy as the SEDFA Rise and Rise Marathon hit the ground with runners covering 42 km , 21 km and 5 km distances. The participants ranged from seasoned athletes to community members.
